Acknowledgements Of Those Who Have Diligently Helped in our 'Barn Again' Endeavor:

The Smithsonian Institution Staff of Washington D. C., USA, who have the vision & foresight to declare the American Family Farm and their Barns, as An American Icon and as part of many great Heritages of America.

The Utah State "Barn Again Committee" and it's able leader, Brian Crockett, who have encouraged, cajoled and guided our local committee through uncharted seas (to us) of questioning waters.

Our local "Wasatch County, Utah, 'Barn Again,' Committee Chairman," who is also a prestigious museum curator, director and producer, who has guided us through many hours of tedium, to establish and achieve, locally, at least a consciousness and nostalgia and maybe, even a certain type of revernce, for our own local historical barns. Our committee members are:

Steven L Olsen, Chairman of our local Wasatch County, 'Barn Again' committee;

Gloria Davis Montgomery, representing our local Wasath County, Fine Arts Council;

Laurie Turnblom, representing our Secondary School and all-around consultant;

Fern Spanos, representing our Intermediate School, a local judge and consultant;

Andrea Robinson and Joan Weston, representing the Elementary Schools and producers of the "Barn Again Anthology;"

Dianne Anderson, worked as layout and design coordinator of the exhibit;

Florine Merrell Whiting, sub-chairman of the Historic Barn sub-committee and representing past-president of and liaison officer with the 'Wasatch County Daughters of the Utah Pioneers' and was our main barn photographer;

James Moroni Besendorfer, former Wasatch County Commissioner, liaison political coordinator, and barn consultant;

Robert Raymond Green, current President of and representing, 'The Mountain Valley Chapter of the Sons of the Utah Pioneers,' who is vitally interested in our local history.
